U. S. Revenue Gains Despite Income Tax Cut

REPORT OF LUCAS SHOWS INCREASE OF 101 MILLIONS

Tax on Incomes Produces 79 Millions More; Tobacco and Cigaret Return Is Up Also.

PLAYING CARDS MORE POPULAR

Stamp Tax on Bridge Accessories Gains Over 20 Per Cent; Beverage Return Is Off.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP)— Increases in both income tax collections and total internal revenue receipts for the fiscal year ending last June 30 over the previous fiscal year were shown in the preliminary statement made public today by former Commissioner Robert H. Lucas.

The reduced income tax rates were in effect during the last six months of the 1930 fiscal year and the opinion of President Hoover and Secretary Mellon that these lower rates may be maintained another year is supported somewhat by the report of the internal revenue bureau.

The report classifies the tax collections for the last fiscal year for the first time. It shows New York state again paid far more than any other state in income taxes—$39,155,401.
Illinois was second with $23,375,181.
Delaware had the largest percentage of increase in income tax payments over the previous year with 39 per cent, while Wyoming payments dropped off 35 per cent.

Collection Costs Fall.
The aggregate receipts of internal revenue were $5,040,145,733 and Mr.
Lucas said this made the cost of operation $1.13 for each dollar collected as compared with $1.17 for the previous year.

Income taxes represented 79 per cent of the total receipts and miscellaneous taxes 21 per cent, the same as the previous year. The principal increases in the revenue from miscellaneous taxes for the year were from tobacco manufacturers and documentary stamp taxes.

The large volume of tobacco tax
collections came from North Carolina, where a total of $23,375,181 was paid on cigarettes alone. The vast proportion of stamp taxes were collected in New York, where $11,000,000 was paid on capital stock sales or transfers.

The inheritance tax also yielded an increase in revenue of $2,572,483 last year for a total of $64,769,625.

Recapitulation.
The following table gives a recapitulation of receipts, by general sources corresponding to the titles in the revenue acts of 1926 and 1928, for the fiscal years 1929 and 1930:

Apartment Arsenal Uncovered by Police

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP)—A small arsenal, including bombs, hand grenades, steel armor and fountain-pen guns, was seized this afternoon in a Brooklyn apartment. The seizure was made by three detectives who trailed a chauffeur of Jack "Legs" Diamond, gangster chieftain, to the apartment.

The detectives arrested James Dalton, 28, of Aera, N. Y., alleged to be Diamond's chauffeur; Harry Kinner, described by police as a rum runner,
and Fred Wilcher, who lived in the apartment, which is located near the army base in Brooklyn.

Detectives said they would notify federal authorities who are investigating an unsuccessful attempt several months ago to blow the safe in the army base and steal several thousand dollars it contained.

Included in today's seizure were two pounder bombs, three iron pipe bombs,
three tear gas bombs, eighteen hand grenades, five steel vests, three steel stomach bands, signalling pistols, machine gun and rifle bullets, and twenty-two fountain-pen guns.

German Sea Fliers Reach Nova Scotia

Unheralded Trans-Atlantic Venture Bids Fair To Be Most Successful of Westward Hops.

QUEENSTOWN, Nova Scotia, Aug.
24.—(AP)—Four modest and weary air heroes from Germany, who dropped in Nova Scotia this afternoon after one of the least advertised trans-Atlantic flights on record, went to bed
here tonight after flying in three days from Iceland to Greenland, Labrador and Nova Scotia.

Their Dornier Wal flying boat, used in the polar regions by the late Lord
Amundsen and again by Captain
Courtney, of England, in a trans-Atlantic attempt, came down on the harbor here this afternoon from Labrador.

Forced down by fog, encountered
during almost the entire trip from Greenland, Captain Wolfgang Von Gronau and his three companions
were in good condition and pleased with the success of their hard flight.

When the weather clears, which they hope will be tomorrow, they will leave for Halifax, refuel, and then continue to New York. Supplies of gasoline and oil have been stored for them at Halifax, roughly 130 miles away.

Speaking of the object of his flight,
Captain Von Gronau said it was part of the program of the Commercial Aviation school on the Isle of Sylt, near Warnemunde, Germany, of which he is the head.

Each year the school sponsors a long flight, but this hop across the Atlantic is the longest ever yet undertaken.

Interviewers found the captain and his companions very modest regarding their brilliant achievement. With the exception of fog, no difficulty was encountered, said the captain.

Soon after leaving Greenland, they lost the radio generator. Fortunately the radio was carried and the loss occasioned no trouble. The airman would have been to make Halifax
had their charts been sufficiently detailed. As it was, they thought it best to land here.

The radio was chiefly useful in supplying weather reports, the captain said. The boat came down safely at Queenstown. They left Cartwright, Hoch, Labrador, at 7:20 a. m. (E. S. T.), having reached there yesterday
from Iqviut, Greenland.

As there is neither wireless nor telegraph station at Cartwright, the departure for Nova Scotia was unheralded as their departure yesterday from Greenland. The whole flight has been a series of surprises.

Originally Von Gronau, who is accompanied by Edward Zimmer, one of the captain's aviation students;
Franz Heck, mechanic, and a vice-less operator named Albrecht, left the German school for Commercial Pilots
at Warnemunde on a training flight early last week. Von Gronau is head of the school.

They flew to the Faeroe Islands, and from there to Reykjavik, Iceland, arriving on Wednesday. They were then expected to fly back to Germany
but on Friday they reported by wireless after departing that they were in a position on the route to Greenland. Subsequently it was learned from Copenhagen that Von Gronau
some months ago had asked for a supply of gasoline to be sent to Julian-ville, Greenland, there to await his arrival. He asked that his request be kept secret.

Friday afternoon their big Dornier
Wal flying boat came down safely at Iqviut. The next news the world had of them, they were on their way to Labrador. Just before pulling in they reported aerial last night, they reported they were preparing to land
at Cartwright.

Throughout the flight the German Commercial Flying school authorities have said that they knew nothing of the captain's plans or preparations.
Von Gronau is known as an excellent aviator and is greatly interested in the scientific flying aspect of flying. Apparently he wished to avoid the usual publicity connected with trans-Atlantic flights.

The distance by air from Cartwright to Queenstown Harbor is roughly 600 miles. The Germans made it in 8 hours and 25 minutes. All the way across the Atlantic they have maintained an average flying speed of about 55 miles an hour but fog
today apparently slowed them down to about 70.

Glider Record.
WASSERKUPPE, Germany, Aug.
24.—(AP)—The world's distance record for glider flying was broken today by Robert Kronfeld, Austrian glider expert, who made a flight of 101 miles.

$3,000 IN GEMS TAKEN BY ROBBER FROM HOTEL ROOM

Woman Guest Reports
Big Loss to Police; Clerk
in Same Hotel Loses $400
to Unmasked Bandit.

A burglary of $3,000 worth of jewelry and a holdup that netted a lone white bandit $400, was reported to police Sunday as having both occurred in a downtown hotel during the small hours of Sunday morning.

Mrs. E. L. Wight, who has been stopping at the hotel for several months, reported to detectives that jewelry valued at $3,000 had been stolen from her room. She did not discover her loss until Sunday morning, and it was her belief that the gems were taken some time Saturday night or early Sunday morning.

The management of the hotel stated Sunday night that they had not been informed of the burglary until notified
by detectives.

W. A. Sloan, of 462 Angier avenue, night clerk at the hotel, reported to Patrolmen L. E. Brown and T. T.
Nall that at 4:45 o'clock Sunday morning he was held up behind the desk at the hotel by a lone unmasked white man and forced to stand by while the bandit took $400 from the till.

Sloan told the police that the man came in quietly and unnoticed, slipped behind the counter, flashing a gun
in his face, taking the money and escaped. Sloan stated that, though he was not sure of the exact time,
he gave chase to the bandit but that
he collapsed after a short pursuit.

Two negro porters, who stated to police that they were sitting in the back of the hotel during the night and early morning, declared that they had heard no disturbance and seen no bandit. Sloan, who is a porter, stated that he was not sure of the exact time,
he gave chase to the bandit but that
he collapsed after a short pursuit.

Safe cracksmen and other stickup men were active in Atlanta in the early part of Sunday morning, it was shown by police records. A safe at the Mavis Bottling Company, 275 Houston street, was opened by "knocking"
the combination and $17.16 taken.

A. Thomas, of 124 Edgewood avenue, reported to headquarters that while walking on Piedmont avenue near Auburn shortly before 5 o'clock Sunday morning he was held up and robbed of $2.75 by two negroes.

GEORGIA FARMER SLAIN AT HOME

Wife Separation Blamed For Shooting by Stepson-in-Law.

MILLEN, Ga., Aug. 24.—John R.
Johnson, 58, prominent farmer of Jenkins county, was shot to death late Saturday night at the home of his son-in-law, Robert Wiggins, 24, seven miles southwest of Millen. Wiggins surrendered to Sheriff Marchant, here,
and admitted the shooting.

Failure of Johnson and his wife to reconcile after a quarrel early Saturday morning was blamed for the tragedy in a statement by Wiggins to county officers.

Wiggins said that Mrs. Johnson, the mother of Mrs. Wiggins, had come to his home early Saturday saying that she and her husband had separated.

Late Saturday night, according to Wiggins, Johnson came to the home and called for his wife. "I answered Johnson's call instead," Wiggins said.
"He was standing in the yard with a shotgun. I asked him what he intended to do, and he said there would be no trouble if his wife consented to return home with him. Johnson seized me and fired. The shot went wild. I grabbed a gun near by and fired. The load entered Johnson's left side and chest, and he died before we had time to summon a physician."

Johnson was a married man about two years ago and is survived by his widow, several brothers and sisters.

Wiggins is the son of Joseph Wiggins,
prominent Jenkins county planter.

CABINET OF PERU QUITS AS REVOLT SPREADS IN SOUTH

President Leguia Will Form Government of Military Commanders
To Combat Uprising.

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 24.—(UN)— Resignation of the cabinet of President Augusto B. Leguia and impending formation of a military cabinet as a result of the internal disorders at Arequipa, was announced at the presidential palace late today.

The military cabinet, to be headed by General Pedro Pablo Kuczynski, was being organized under direction of the president and with the express purpose of coping with the revolution of troops at Arequipa.

After the palace announced the resignation of the cabinet, the president had a conference with General
Martinez, Admiral Olivera, General
Cesar Landaruri, Antonio Castro, Julio Miranda, Manuel Ponce and Enrique Ruiz Buanano.

It was indicated that the military cabinet would be composed of six generals, probably those named above,
and Admiral Olivera.

Two Peruvian cruisers and an army transport raced toward the port of Mollendo, south of Lima, to establish a blockade there in an effort to prevent rebel forces, now holding Mollendo and Arequipa, from gaining a free route to the sea.

The government issued a statement denying that the revolution, which broke out Friday at Arequipa, when that city was seized by troops led by Lieutenant Colonel Sanchez Cerro, had spread to the provinces of Puno and Cuzco.

The statement, officially admitted,
however, that the rebels had captured
the city of Mollendo, a town on the sea 107 miles from Arequipa.

Mollendo is at the terminal of the Southern railway and is the port for Arequipa. There is no bay, the anchorage being in an open roadstead.

The government this evening also made public messages purporting to be from military commanders in many places throughout Peru, expressing loyalty to President Augusto M. Le-guia and his administration. The messages, however, were not verified.

President Leguia was cheered by a crowd of several thousand persons at the track Sunday afternoon. Re-establishment of the Peruvian constitution is the aim of the revolutionaries, who Friday seized Arequipa, Peru, the text of a manifesto issued by them declared. The text was received here today.

Escaped Prisoner Kills During Train Holdup and Eludes Posses.

FORT FRANCIS, Ont., Aug. 24.— (AP)—Two United States immigration inspectors were shot and killed early today on a train at Emo, Ont., 25 miles west of here, and their assailant was shot and fatally wounded 12
hours later by a posse.

The inspectors killed were Lawrence Dutton, about 30 years old, of Hanier, Minn., and Lawrence Jones,
27, of Warrod, Minn. Their assailant was Emmeric Frenett, 21, of Fort Frances, who died late today from bullet wounds inflicted by the possemen.

The inspectors were killed without warning by Frenett, who thought they were about to arrest him as Fort Frances police had pursued Frenett when they caught him tampering with automobiles.

Dutton was shot as he awoke from a nap on the train and Jones was killed as he boarded the train at Emo. Jones was his duty each night.
Neither inspectors had been aware that Frenett was sought by local police, according to officials here.

Several hundred shots were exchanged between possemen and Frenett,
who had barricaded himself in a house five miles west of Emo before he finally decided to make a dash for a nearby woods. As he ran out of the house a volley was fired at him and he dropped with three wounds.

Sterling Piles Up Huge Vote in Texas

Lead Over "Ma" Ferguson Mounts Near 100,000
as Last Few Precincts Make Belated Report.

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 24.—(AP)—
His lead mounting slowly toward the 100,000 mark, Ross S. Sterling, of Houston, wealthy chairman of the state highway commission, today received scores of congratulations on his selection yesterday as the democratic nominee for governor.

An unprecedented number of Texas
voters was believed to have expressed a preference for Sterling over Mrs.
Miriam A. "Ma" Ferguson, former governor and wife of James E. Ferguson, who was impeached while in the governor's chair. More than 800-000 votes had been unofficially tabulated by Texas election bureau today and the total was believed certain to exceed the $33,442 votes cast in the first primary this year, which set a new high mark.

Unofficial returns to the election
bureau from 248 of the state's 253 counties, including 106 complete, gave
the following vote for governor:
Sterling, Houston, 462,324; Mrs.
Ferguson, 370,468.

Sterling, known in the vicinity of Houston through his philanthropies,
his civic work, his building enterprises and his ownership of the Houston Post-Dispatch, grasped his first opportunity for statewide service
when he accepted an appointment as chairman of Governor Dan Moody's highway commission three and one-half years ago.

Opposed to the Houston man, who is a novice at stump speaking, was James E. Ferguson, one of the most adroit campaigners that Texas has produced in many years, who bore the brunt of the campaign for his wife.
Sterling said the issues were "Ferguson and honesty in government and the adoption of a highway system."

Sterling and Mrs. Ferguson were highly respected in the state and the primary. Mrs. Ferguson led the field in the July race. As she did not have a majority of votes cast, however, she was defeated. The Houston man was born on a southeast Texas farm. He quit school in the third grade to help earn a living. He headed for a seaport city where he read and wrote until after he was 21 years old. For a time he was a freight boat boy and then he successfully became a country store keeper and country banker.

Next he became interested in oil, which gave him his millions. He joined the Humble Oil company,
which grew to be a giant concern,
and managed its affairs until a few years ago, when he sold his holdings.
Williams had 20,396 votes; Sartis,
17,481.

In all other contests one of the candidates received more than 50 per cent of the vote in the first primary. The democratic nomination ordinarily is tantamount to election.
The republicans did not hold a runoff primary, having selected Dr.
George C. Butler, of Austin, in July
as their standard bearer in the governor's race.

Guinn Williams, incumbent, apparently had the third largest district democratic congressional nomination
from B. D. Martin. With returns from 10 of 12 counties tabulated,
Williams had 20,396 votes; Sartis,
17,481.

State Senator Edgar E. Witt, of Waco, had a lead of 60,000 votes
over Sterling. H. Strong, of Dallas, one-time state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, in the lieutenant governor's race. The vote was Witt 330,488 and Strong 339,105.

James V. "Jimmy" Allred, 31-year-old Wichita Falls attorney, scored an easy victory in the attorney general's race over Robert Lee Bobbitt, incumbent. The latest tabulation gave Allred 443,993 votes to 320,839 for Bobbitt.

Former Governor Pat M. Neff's majority in the railroad commission race was more than 100,000 votes on the latest tabulation. Neff is at present a member of the commission.

Boy Is Severely Bitten By Father's Pet Wolf

With his left leg severely bitten by a pet wolf, Johnnie Hammock, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Hammock, of 118 Lakewood terrace, Sunday morning was taken to Grady hospital for treatment. The wolf, which was captured in the northwest by the boy's father, about two years ago, is kept chained on the place and usually makes a very amiable companion for the children. Mr. Hammock stated, however, that the animal was tempera-
mental and he was fearful of it.

Johnny, under the care of the family
physician, vows he will give the animal, "amiable" or not, a wide berth henceforth.

MOBILE OFFICERS SCOURING SECTION FOR ESCAPED PAIR

Resident of Vicinity Tells of Seeing Two Men Answering Descriptions of Atlanta Killers.

VIGOROUS SEARCH CONTINUES HERE

Local Man-Hunt, at End of Third Full Day, Uncovers No Important Clue, Sheriff Reports.

Reports from Mobile that two men
believed to be Fred Fair and Sam Aiken had been seen in the vicinity of Toulminville, Ala., Sunday shifted the search for the doomed pair who escaped from Fulton tower on Thursday night to the little Alabama city.

Mobile officers rushed to Toulmin-ville, according to press dispatches,
after E. W. Sykes, of that place, reported that a man came to his house and asked for something to eat, afterwards joining another man waiting a short distance away. Both men, according to Sykes, answered the descriptions of the hunted pair, except that their heads had been recently shaved. Fair and Aiken had not been seen since their escape from Fulton tower, but might have done so in an effort to change their appearance after the escape, it was pointed out.

Sheriff James I. Lowry said Sunday night that the Mobile officers had been furnished with full descriptions of the hunted men, together with their fingerprints. If the suspects should be arrested and if they fitted
the descriptions of Fair and Aiken, Sheriff Lowry said he would immediately send some of his deputies to identify the men definitely and bring them back to Atlanta.

Vigorous Search Continues.
While interest Sunday night centered in the Mobile reports, efforts to find the escaped men were intensified in Atlanta and vicinity. All available deputies and city police continued the vigorous search which for three days has proved futile. Nothing has as yet been uncovered to indicate definitely whether Fair and Aiken headed for a seaport city or whether they are in hiding in Atlanta or near by.

This morning, with the nation-wide
search going on, Assistant Solicitor General C. Stephens, in the supreme court, will ask for a dismissal of a plea for a rehearing of the Fair and Aiken case. Fair's attorney, Sunday night, said he expected the court to set a date for final action on the plea, and if Fair had not returned by that time, to dismiss it.

Guillebeau explained Sunday night that prior to his client's escape, and in the event the rehearing plea was denied, he planned to file an extraordinary motion for a new trial, basing it on grounds of newly-discovered evidence.

Meantime, also, the Fulton county commission is slated to begin a "shakup" in Sheriff Lowry's jail forces following an investigation of circumstances surrounding the escape of the men who had been tried, convicted and sentenced to death and whose appeals for new trials had been rejected
by the supreme court.

The scope of the investigation of the escape has turned attention to fixing the identity and arrest of persons believed to have co-operated with the criminals in their long-land plans.

Kiddies' Day of Days Dawns

FINE SHOW OFFERED BY SPARKS' 1930 EDITION

Again, Circus Comes to Town

This is circus day again in Atlanta—the day of all days for the children, and for many grown-ups, too. Sparks circus, a Georgia institution, having maintained winter quarters at Macon for 12 years, and regarded as one of the outstanding amusement enterprises of the world, is here for performances this afternoon and tonight.

The long trains bearing the elephants, the wild animals, tents and other equipment and personnel of the circus arrived here Sunday morning and were greeted by the usual well-welcome throng of circus fans.

As quickly as the show trains were "spotted"—as they say in circus parlance—the unloading operations were started. The crowd gathered as closely as traffic officers would permit and watched the bulky red wagons roll down the runways from the cars to the street, where they were pulled away to the showgrounds behind the Sears, Roebuck & Company's plant, by teams of massive Percherons, some of the 400 horses carried by the big show.

At the showgrounds about 200 other workmen were working feverishly at their task of erecting the "tent city." The "big top," in which the circus performance is staged, the side-show and many other tents were not erected Sunday, as it has long been a custom of the Sparks circus work not to permit any unnecessary work on that day, it was explained.

Only the tents necessary for the care and shelter of the animals and perishable equipment, and the dining tents were raised. Early this morning, however, the crews again will start work and soon the big tent spires will be pointing skyward over acres of billowing white canvas. The "big top" of Sparks circus has a seating capacity for 6,700 persons, it was stated. There are many auxiliary tents, including the menageries, side-show, and dressing room tents.

Attention is called to the fact that the performances start at 2 and 8 p. m. Doors to the menageries open at 1 and 7 p. m. in order to allow a full hour for the inspection of the comprehensive zoological collection, gathered from five continents.

With its three rings, hippodrome track, steel arena and elevated stages alive with thrilling acts throughout the two-hour program, Sparks circus is said to be presenting a performance unsurpassed by any other. Among the featured acts are the original Nelson family, acrobats and Risley ac-tists; Franz Woska, German subject of Bengal tigers, Nubian lions and African leopards; Mile. Hosina, petite Parisian wire walker; the Riding Gaiques of Holland; the Aerial Walters, of Belgium; the Carlos Carreon family of riders, of Spain, and the Wright Duo, equilibrist.

Variety is the keynote of the program, with ample offerings of "intrepid aerialists, daring riders, hilarious clowns and astounding acrobats," it is declared.

Hoovers Attend Church at Camp

LURAY, Va., Aug. 24.—(UN)—President and Mrs. Hoover today attended the first divine services to be held at their Rapidan mountain camp—in surroundings reminiscent probably of the devotionals of the pioneers of more than a century ago.

The services were held in the pine board building used in week days by the marines guarding the camp as a recreational center. A navy chaplain, Lieutenant Commander C. A. Neymann, sent out from Washington on President Hoover's special order, gave the sermon.

Guests and the marines also were understood to have attended, although camp attaches refused to discuss the interesting scene or disclose the chaplain's text. Mr. Hoover is a member of the Quaker sect, which rarely has a designated pastor and sometimes no sermon at services.

Body of Gangster Found in New York

LYNDBROOK, N. Y., Aug. 24.—(AP)—The body of a slain man, believed to be a gangster from Hell's Kitchen, New York, was found today in a berry patch by a hungry wanderer looking for berries to eat.

The spot is about 200 feet from Sunrise highway, where thousands of automobiles pass daily. It was estimated that the body had lain there for three weeks.

Police believe the man was slain elsewhere and his body dumped in the berry patch.

Sparks Circus Star

Roman races and many other different feats of horsemanship will be a feature of the Sparks circus performances in Atlanta this afternoon and tonight. Above is Miss LaVerne Hauser, one of the circus stars, standing on two fast Arabian horses.

Garbo in 'Romance' Scores Hit at Fox

"ROMANCE," with Greta Garbo, Newsreel and short subjects, Fox Grand orchestra, Enrico Leide conducting. On the stage, Fanchon and Marco "Eyes" idea.

Garbo is just as much Garbo as ever in "Romance," which opened to a packed house Saturday afternoon at the Fox theater. If you liked the hothouse Swedish orchid as Anna Christie (and who didn't?) you will like her as Rita Cavallini, fascinating and dangerous soprano of the Italian opera, though Garbo's portrayal of the character differs by at least 25 degrees of latitude from Doris Keane's version in the original stage play of the same name. The difference is not so much a question of art as of geography. For one thing, you do not associate the pale sub-arctic beauty of Garbo with the land of "bel canto" and "bel amor," and the husky Garbo voice seems equally anomalous when you reflect that it is supposed to belong to a coloratura soprano.

The story, which is told by an aged and respectable bishop to his grandson, deals with a romantic incident of his younger days when, as the rector of St. Gile's Episcopal church, in New York, he was swept off his feet by an un-clerical passion for a visiting prima donna. Through a succession of emotional crises the story passes to a climax where, for a minute or two, it looks as though the rector might be coming down to our own level. But the cantatrice instead, rising to the heights recently vacated by her lover, contrives to save him from himself and to leave him, quite obviously, ripe for a bishopric.

Like so many of us, the rector lives to repent of his virtues and the moral, which he is careful to point out for the benefit of his grandson, seems to be that young fellows ought to marry their girl friends, even when they happen to be foreign actresses with a past, since otherwise they are in danger of becoming bishops.

Paul Olsen and his dancing partner get a big hand in Fanchon and Marco's latest "idea" (which is all about "Eyes"), while Koo, Toki and Yoki, who provide something new in the way of a juggling-singing-dancing act, get an almost equally good response from the audience. The program also includes Bob and Eulah Burroff, dancers, the Six Candrea Brothers, all of whom (believe it or not) play the cornet; Don Carroll, tenor, and a lot of low comedy from a person named Greene, who, billed as being "annoyed" by Addie Clifford, managed to communicate his annoyance to the present reviewer.

Ruth Chatterton Star Of Paramount Picture

"ANYBODY'S WOMAN," with Ruth Chatterton and Clive Brook. Newsreel and short subjects. Paramount Grand orchestra, Lou Forbes conducting. On the stage, "Sports Carnival" presentation.

Ruth Chatterton, in her formative years, must have been told over and over again that what's worth having is worth fighting for, because in her recent screen successes she has, much to the delight of her audiences, exhibited a belligerence which one hardly expects to find in the printed pages. "Anybody's Woman," the offering this week at the Paramount, is a Gouverneur Morris story, and Mr. Morris is by no means a pacifistic writer in the principal role, the thought is that the story lends itself easily enough to dramatization, but, at the same time, there comes the irresistible conclusion that no other star discovered by the movies could bring the punch and dynamic portrayal of the deeper human emotions that she brings, and with such ease that, whenever you can detach yourself from the thread of the plot, your admiration for her great artistry is stirred to new heights.

The story concerns a chorus girl rather faithful to the title who, after floating about and grabbing at one straw and another, drifts to terra firma and becomes the wife of a successful barrister, played by Clive Brook. Out of the sorrow of her own wreckage she begins a battle to make this brilliant lawyer over. The obstacles she encounters, not the least of which is a former wife of her husband, and the devoted and skillful way she handles them, is the story Morris has told and which Miss Chatterton in a dramatizing, has given a forceful bit of new charm.

"Sports Carnival" is the Public vaudeville, and Lou Forbes, his stage band, have a lot to say with making up and excellently balanced program, consisting, as it does, of the entertaining organ numbers and an interesting news reel.

—R. E. POWELL.

ERLANGER BOX OFFICE OPENS SEASON TODAY

Seats on Sale for Erlanger Theater Players, Who Open Next Week.

With the Erlanger Theater Players opening their fall and winter season just one week from today, the box office at the Erlanger will open this morning at 10 o'clock for the advance seat sale, both for the opening week's attraction and for season reservations.

The first production for the popular stock company will be "Sure Fire," that smashing comedy success of the New York stage. The company is now hard at work on rehearsals and Director Harry McKee declares that, with three new faces in the cast and with a stage production which will set new standards for the local legitimate stage, Atlanta is going to find the Erlanger Theater Players even finer entertainment than the 15 weeks they revelled in during the recent spring.

Marion Eburne-Hall, leading lady; Thomas McQuillan, leading man, and Eva Edge, ingenue, are the new members of the cast.

The Erlanger management is offering, prior to the opening of the season, strip tickets, good for any performance of the season, in any quantity, at a marked reduction from the regular prices. These may be secured at the theater office.

Clear, Warmer Weather Seen For This Week

Except for that pleasant tang in the air which goes with all good autumn weather, Atlanta is scheduled to have a short season of summer-like days and nights. Temperatures, says rector C. F. von Herrmann, the official prophet at the United States weather bureau, will range between 65 and the low eighties, and there only a slim chance of rain during week.

Borah Says Tariff Is Inadequate Bill

BATH, Maine, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, visiting here with Federal Judge William S. Kenyon, of Iowa, a member of the Hoover law enforcement commission, today gave his opinion that the new tariff bill does not fulfill republican pledges.

"You know, I voted against it," he said. "I do not feel that the new bill fulfills our pledges to the people, but I hope that its effect will be better than anticipated."

Queried as to the possibility of further revision at the next session of congress, Borah said he did not anticipate another attempt at revision very soon.

E. D. RIVERS HITS FOES FOR CAMPAIGN CARDS

Opponents Specialize on "Villifying" Others, Candidate Says.

Asserting that if the public both read the statements of the other four candidates for governor appearing in the Sunday papers, the charges and counter charges disclosed "that their chief claim to be classed as gubernatorial timber seemed to lie in the ability to best vilify an opponent," State Senator E. D. Rivers Sunday issued a statement declaring that he proposed to continue his campaign by running on substantially the same platform he advocated two years ago.

He said:

"The voters of Georgia can well judge the character of the five aspirants for the governorship by their statements appearing in the Sunday papers. Four candidates filled from a column to a column and a half each with vicious charges and denials which, if the public bothered to read them, would have disclosed that their chief claim to be classed as gubernatorial timber seemed to lie in the ability to best vilify an opponent. There did appear a detailed outline of the principles I propose to carry out, if elected governor. I explained what I have already accomplished for these principles and told what I hoped to do in the future."

Ramspeck Addresses Spanish War Veterans

Eulogizing the acts of heroism and the fortitude of American soldiers during the Spanish-American War, Congressman Ramspeck Sunday afternoon addressed Spanish War Veterans of the Lee-Roosevelt camp and members of the Ladies' Auxiliary at a meeting held in the Redmen's Wigwam on Central avenue.

Following Congressman Ramspeck's address, Dr. Sam W. Small spoke on the 32nd annual national convention of Spanish War Veterans held recently in Philadelphia. The meeting was presided over by W. M. Hairston, commander of the camp.

During the course of his address, Congressman Ramspeck referred to a bill introduced by him and passed in the late session of congress providing for the location of a branch of the National Soldiers and Sailors Home somewhere in the southeastern states.

"This bill authorizes an appropriation of $2,000,000 and I expect to do everything in my power towards locating this home in the Atlanta section," he stated.

BUICK WORKER NOW TELLS OF GREAT CHANGE

Eats Heartily, Sleeps Fine and Is Brimful of New Energy Since Taking Sargon.

"Sargon has meant so much to me that I want to pass the good news along for the benefit of others who are trying to find the right medicine for their troubles," recently stated

J. C. RILEY.

J. C. Riley, Eubanks Ave., Egan Park, Atlanta, well-known mechanic for the Buick Motor Co., 512 Spring Street.

"I hadn't been feeling like myself for several years and it got so that I couldn't eat a meal without suffering for hours with heartburn and a terrible bloated feeling in my stomach. I had to take strong purgatives to get any relief from constipation and I don't believe anybody in Fulton county had worse headaches than I had. I had so little strength and energy that I just had to force myself to keep on the job."

"My wife was in bad health and she had gotten such wonderful relief from Sargon that I decided to try the medicine. Five bottles put my stomach in healthy condition, and now I eat heartily, sleep fine and I'm brimful of new strength and energy."

"Two bottles of Sargon Pills overcame my constipation entirely and they didn't gripe or upset me at all. My wife and I give Sargon full credit for our present fine health."

The Special Sargon Representative is at Jacobs' Main Store, 48 North Broad St., Grant Bldg., where he is meeting the public daily and explaining the merits of this remarkable new medicine. Sargon may be obtained at all Jacobs' Drug Stores throughout Atlanta.—(adv.)

B. Y. P. U. School To Open Tonight At Druid Hills

The annual training school of the Baptist Young People's Union of the Druid Hills Baptist church will open at 7:30 o'clock tonight, continuing through Friday night, with a faculty of south-wide and state-wide experts in religious training for young people.

More than 200 young people have registered for the courses offered in the training school, according to Parks Warnock, general director.

Mrs. Jerry Landin, of Nashville, Tenn., superintendent of work among juniors and intermediates for the Southern Baptist convention, will teach the junior and intermediate leader's manual. She has taught at Druid Hills before and her course is expected to be the largest attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Johnson, of Louisville, Ky., will teach during the week, the "Training in Christian Service," and the former, the senior manual. Mr. Johnson was state secretary of B. Y. P. U. work in Alabama for several years.

Edwin S. Preston, state secretary of B. Y. P. U. work in Georgia, and his associate, Sibley Burnett, also will be members of the faculty. Mr. Preston will teach the intermediate manual and Burnett will teach "Books of the Bible."

Mrs. A. B. Brown will teach "Studying for Service." Mrs. Parks Warnock will teach the junior manual.

Dr. Louis D. Newton will teach "Training in the Baptist Spirit."

There will be a brief program of music and devotion each night between the lecture periods. It was stated. All of the classes will meet in the young people's department of the building.

Carswell Flies Here With Young Stribling

Soaring above the other four gubernatorial candidates for at least one day, George H. Carswell, candidate for governor, arrived here Sunday afternoon from Macon in W. L. (Young) Stribling's new monoplane. He was making his return trip from a speaking tour in middle Georgia.

Making up the party from Macon, in addition to Mr. Carswell and "Strib," were Mrs. W. L. Stribling and Mrs. W. O. Kinney, the boxer's mother-in-law, who is manager of the woman's division of the Carswell campaign. The Striblings are the guests of Mrs. Kinney at the Piedmont hotel.

A number of flights will be made by Mr. Carswell and Young Stribling during the closing days of the campaign, it was stated Sunday.

Returning to Macon today, the Striblings again will board their plane Wednesday for a visit to the national air races at Chicago.

Ellis Law Adopted By Treutlen County

Treutlen is the latest to join the counties of Georgia adopting the Ellis health law providing for a full-time county health unit, according to news which has just reached the state board of health. The second recommendation for the unit, as required by law, has just been made by the Treutlen county grand jury.

A district unit, combining Treutlen, Montgomery, Toombs and Wheeler counties, probably will be established, said Dr. T. F. Abernethy, state commissioner of health. Each of these counties is considered too small to support a unit within itself, but Dr. Abernethy believes the four counties can profitably employ one together.

The idea will be put up to the grand juries of the other three counties as they meet this fall, it was said. If this county unit is established, it will be the first district proposition to be put on in Georgia under the provisions of the Ellis law. More than 30 of the larger counties are already maintaining county units within themselves.

4-Day Cooking School To Open for Negroes

A four-day cooking school for negroes, featuring demonstrations of modern gas appliances will open at the Wilets Street Baptist church at 8 o'clock Tuesday night under the direction of a home economist from the Atlanta Gas Light Company. The school will be free of charge and will include, besides lessons in the use of up-to-date gas fixtures, a daily program and the distribution of valuable prizes.

Catholic Alumnae Honor Mother Seton

EMMITSBURG, Md., Aug. 24.—(P)—Carrying lighted tapers, delegates here to attend the annual convention of the International Federation of Roman Catholic Alumnae, tonight visited the tomb of Mother Seton, organizer of one of the branches of Sisters of Charity, who was canonized a few years ago. A eulogy of her life was read by Rev. Joseph B. Code, of Dayton, Ohio, and benediction pronounced by the Rt. Rev. John N. McNamara, auxiliary bishop of the Archdiocese of Baltimore.

PERRY AGAIN SCORES MOULTRIE EDITORIAL

Gubernatorial Candidate Denies Misquoting C. B. Allen.

If C. B. Allen, campaign manager for John N. Holder and editor of the Moultrie Daily Observer, had tried for a month "he would fail to give a more correct statement of Holder's political career than when he said: 'We have to run the government by the rule of politics.'"

The statement follows: "The Holder-Allen mountain has labored and brought forth a very small mouse. I invite the public to read the Allen editorial. Decide for yourself if I have incorrectly quoted this editorial. Mr. Allen, though he might try for a month, would fail to give a more correct statement of Holder's political career than when he said, 'We have to run the government by the rule of politics.' Put the bar on a long pole and hold it out in front of them; slip them the idea from behind."

"Again Holder and Carswell are working over night to get the public engaged in a fight between them. In Sunday's press, John comes back again with a challenge to George, and quite pleasing to George, to resurrect the old Holder-Carswell feud. Without this to belud their disgraceful official record, they realize there is no hope of their being taken seriously in the present campaign. As a matter of fact, George has already checked in to either fourth or fifth place, and now that he will not be left at the tail end of the ticket, Holder plainly shows that his one hope is to get all the anti-Carswell votes. Despite the big money these two candidates are spending, the masses are daily organizing to smash this sort of influence in Georgia beyond hope of redemption."

"Mr. Russell has labored days in an effort to explain his dodge on the schoolbook bill in 1924. He now is unable to say that he did vote. He doesn't say why he dodged. A recent statement by a friend of Mr. Russell's in Atlanta would leave one to believe that Mr. Russell fought in the World War. Mr. Russell has repeatedly but vainly sought to leave the same impression. For no purpose, except to give the facts and to keep the American Legion out of politics, here is the truth about his service record. He enlisted in the navy reserve at Athens, Ga., October 1, 1918, 41 days before the war closed, and became attached to the bombproof 'Good Ship Peabody' (Peabody Hall) on the campus of the University of Georgia, where he did his fighting, and where he was discharged without casualty."

"Mr. Russell was of war age in April, 1917, when we went into the war, but he only got mad enough to fight at a time when the war was expected to close any day, and just at the time when he was about to be drafted for service in the regular army. The American Legion is one of our greatest institutions and all Georgia took off their hats to Mr. Edgar Dunlap, of Gainesville, when he refused to run for governor because he was afraid he would involve the American Legion in politics."

"JAS. A. PERRY."

FOR almost every business enterprise where there is hauling to be done, the Ford 1½-ton truck offers able performance for the work, reliable strength, long life, low first cost, and economy of operation. Not in a few fields, but in many, the Ford truck has found a place. In all of these, it is serving faithfully and well.

Closely related to your satisfaction with the Ford truck are features of its construction which reduce the cost of maintenance. Forty different kinds of steel are used in the chassis. Each of these is especially designed to resist strain, wear, or fatigue in the part for which it is employed.

The crankshaft and camshaft, for example, are of Ford carbon manganese steel. Valves are of chrome silicon alloy. The front axle is a chrome-alloy steel forging. These and many other special steels prolong the life of the truck, increase its ability to do hard work, and reduce the necessity for adjustments or repair.

New features of the truck are the spiral bevel gear rear axle, which has a straddle-mounted pinion; the two gear-ratios optional; the larger brakes; heavier front axle and spring; 4-speed transmission; provision for power take-off mounting; and the dual rear wheels, available at small additional cost.

Standard bodies, which are the stake, platform, and panel types, are mounted on the chassis with 131½-inch wheelbase. A chassis with 157-inch wheelbase is available for carrying light but bulky loads.

Go to your Ford dealer and see this truck. The closer your inspection of its chassis and bodies, the more you will appreciate that it is a value far in excess of the cost.

British Radicals Hit Privileges Of Royal Body

GLAMIS, Scotland, Aug. 24.—(P)—Britain's new royal baby, born here on Thursday to the Duchess of York, has stirred some of labor's left-wing members to comparisons between the lot of royal infants and that of their poverty-stricken infant subjects.

At the annual Keir Hardie memorial demonstration Saturday at Cumnock, Ayrshire, barely 100 miles from Glamis, Miss Mary Shennan, laborite, said the royal baby "would never have to face the question of living on 5, 3 or 2 shillings a week."

John R. Clynes, labor home secretary, who was present officially to attest the birth, came in for some scorching criticism by his party's left-wing members.

Miss Shennan said that lots of babies could have been substituted before Clynes saw the child, but she wasn't concerned with that kind of substitutism.

"What I want to emphasize is that the needs of the royal baby are just the same as those of any other baby in the country—fresh air, proper food and sunlight."

John McGovern, recently elected labor M. P. for Shettleston, made a direct attack upon Clynes. He said it was "mockery and a sham to see the labor home secretary sitting for three weeks on the doorstep of royalty as a kind of labor midwife, while the work-classes were enduring the long night of martyrdom and despair."

Meanwhile, continued favorable progress of the Duchess of York and her infant daughter was reported in the bulletin issued today from Glamis castle.

Sir Henry Simson, the obstetrician attending the Duchess, issued a statement that the Duchess was "in the best of health" and that "twilight sleep" had been used for the birth.

"My attention has been drawn to certain statements in the press with regard to the confinement of her royal highness, the Duchess of York, particularly one that twilight sleep was induced," said the physician. "This statement is without any foundation."

55,660 New Box Cars Are Built in 7 Months

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(P)—The American Railway Association reported today that 55,660 new freight cars were placed in service by class 1 railroads during the first seven months of 1930, as compared with 42,552 for the same period last year.

A similar increase in new locomotives also was shown in the report, 484 having been placed in service in the seven months, compared with 371 last year.

Of the new freight cars, 28,616 were box cars, an increase of 8,069 over last year, and 21,463 were coal cars, compared with 14,475 last year. The railroads on August 1 had 19,027 new freight cars on order, compared with 36,335 on the same date last year.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(UN)—Thirty-two out of 42 state governors, 28 out of 42 state attorneys-general, and 74 senators and 290 house members, are dry, in the opinion of Anti-Saloon League state superintendents.

The Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals today reprinted a compilation of an Anti-Saloon League survey, commenting it was "front page" news.

The summary, as of July 31, based on reports of the league's state leaders, said:

"Forty-two states reporting on governors report 32 governors dry, six moderately dry, three wet and one completely wet. Forty-two states reporting on attorneys-general show 28 dry, 10 moderately dry, four wet and four completely wet."

"Forty-five states reporting on United States senators classify 74 dry, two moderately dry, 14 wet. Forty-two states report 290 congressmen dry, one moderately dry, 68 wet and one completely wet and six doubtful."

The 15 states unreported as to state senators and representatives, it is added, are Rhode Island and Connecticut, which did not ratify the eighteenth amendment. Arizona, Colorado, Florida, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, New Mexico, New York, South Dakota, Tennessee, Utah, New York and Illinois both have large percentages of wet as compared with the figures given for the rest of the country.

Turkey Insists Persia Join Cause

ISTANBUL, Aug. 24.—(P)—A note to Persia insisting on the necessity of military co-operation with Turkey against rebellious Kurdish tribesmen around Mount Ararat has been sent to the Turkish charge d'affaires at Tehran by Dr. Tewfik Rushdi Bey, Turkish minister of foreign affairs.

This new note urges that rectification of the Turco-Persian frontier near Mount Ararat is indispensable. It asks the cession to Turkey of the Persian zone touching the slopes of Mount Ararat, through which hitherto the Kurdish tribesmen based on Ararat have received supplies and made their escape.

In return Turkey offers Persia a stretch of territory on the southern part of the frontier. The note says that operations by Turkish troops around Mount Ararat are legitimate defensive measures.

New Orleans Girls In Endurance Swim

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 24.—(UN)—The female of the species has started New Orleans' latest "endurance chamionship" fad—swimming the treacherous Mississippi.

Three girls, Irene Philbin, 16; Clara Hopkins, 15; and Marian Henry, 18, swam the muddy river and back again today. Before they had finished, a half dozen other girls among the 6,000 spectators announced they would make an endurance contest of it, beginning tomorrow.

The river is about a mile wide but the current causes swimmers to go more than twice the distance in crossing.

Perry Outstanding Candidate

Few people in the State of Georgia have been permitted to render the service to our state as has been possible in the official career of our candidate for governor, the Honorable James A. Perry. With the exception of the propaganda being disseminated by selfish interests in the gubernatorial campaign, not a single reason has been assigned by anyone why Mr. Perry is not far out in front, in point of comparison, of either of the other candidates. Indeed, he has more to his credit, in the way of a constructive, fearless, fair, painstaking official, as a basis for his asking to be elected governor, than any man who has gone before the people of Georgia, as such candidate, in a long number of years.

The cheap politics of his opponents in an effort to capitalize prejudices in the form of corporation baiting, has fallen far short of the mark. On the contrary, these charges against Mr. Perry have rebounded to his great political advantage. The people of this state know what it has meant to Georgia to have had enormous expansion of light and power service, almost throughout our state, and at materially lower rates than prevailed in the very recent past. In fact, it is now the only expense going into our monthly cost of living that is now less than was before the World War. Every point in the state, where served by the same company, is given precisely the same rate, with the same opportunity for industrial development in the smallest community served as exists in the large cities.

Speak to any one in this campaign, from any section of the state, and you are at once given in substance this answer, "Perry is by far the best man for governor." Some go further and say that it is a great service to the state that a man of Mr. Perry's ability aspires to our governorship. We know too well that the day is fast coming when the average man of Mr. Perry's ability will not bend to the usual tactics necessary in a state campaign when in competition with a self-serving politician. Mr. Perry has not been mixed up with any of the political bickering, as can be truly said of most of the other candidates in this campaign; he can go into the governor's office with more confidence back of him for leadership than either of the other candidates.

We believe the time is here when Georgia is ready to avail itself of the superior qualifications possessed by Mr. Perry, and for once make qualifications the controlling question in determining our choice for governor. If this is to prevail throughout the state, Gwinnett county will furnish the next governor, and by a majority resembling an actual ground swell.—News-Herald.

The Ford Truck offers a value far above its price

FOR almost every business enterprise where there is hauling to be done, the Ford 1½-ton truck offers able performance for the work, reliable strength, long life, low first cost, and economy of operation. Not in a few fields, but in many, the Ford truck has found a place. In all of these, it is serving faithfully and well.

Closely related to your satisfaction with the Ford truck are features of its construction which reduce the cost of maintenance. Forty different kinds of steel are used in the chassis. Each of these is especially designed to resist strain, wear, or fatigue in the part for which it is employed.

The crankshaft and camshaft, for example, are of Ford carbon manganese steel. Valves are of chrome silicon alloy. The front axle is a chrome-alloy steel forging. These and many other special steels prolong the life of the truck, increase its ability to do hard work, and reduce the necessity for adjustments or repair.

New features of the truck are the spiral bevel gear rear axle, which has a straddle-mounted pinion; the two gear-ratios optional; the larger brakes; heavier front axle and spring; 4-speed transmission; provision for power take-off mounting; and the dual rear wheels, available at small additional cost.

Standard bodies, which are the stake, platform, and panel types, are mounted on the chassis with 131½-inch wheelbase. A chassis with 157-inch wheelbase is available for carrying light but bulky loads.

Go to your Ford dealer and see this truck. The closer your inspection of its chassis and bodies, the more you will appreciate that it is a value far in excess of the cost.

Tragic Reminder of Past Day Marks Week's Foreign News

Death of 33 Years Ago and Birth of Royal Child Divide Interest in Dispatches.

BY ALEXANDER H. UHL.
Associated Press Cable Editor.

The 20th century, by now accustomed to ocean flights and air voyages that have penetrated to both the north and south poles, this past week saw time turned back 33 years and caught a glimpse of a daring air expedition into the arctic that marked the close of the 19th century.

Ever since July 11, 1897, the world has wondered exactly what happened to Solomon Auguste Andree, noted Swedish balloonist and explorer, who on that day started the first flight to the north pole, destined to end in mystery and the blank wall of silence that the arctic sometimes throws around those who dare it.

The world now knows in part what happened to Andree and the two men who accompanied him, Knut Frankel and Nils Strindberg, after they took off from Dunes Island, Spitzbergen, in their balloon hoping that favorable air currents would take them across the north pole and back to civilization. Their bodies were discovered on White Island near Fridtjof Nansen Land by a Norwegian expedition led by Dr. S. Horn, on August 6, on that of this only reached the outside world Friday by radio.

On Sealing Vessel.
The bodies and the equipment recovered with them are aboard a small vessel which is not expected to make port before September 10. There is a possibility, however, that the bodies will be brought in sooner, as the Swedish government is planning to send a battleship to bring them back to their native land.

Among the possessions found near the bodies which were preserved in the ice and snow, was a diary which in all likelihood will reveal a story of hardships and privation as heroic as that of Captain Scott and his companions in the antarctic.

While the arctic was thus giving up the secret of Andree's fate that it had guarded so many years, the restless again took toll of ships and men at widely scattered points. The steamship Tahiti sank off Rorotonga near Cook Islands in the Pacific, but every one of the 317 passengers and crew aboard her was safely taken off by the steamship Ventura.

The ragged Cornish coast of England, however, saw a more tragic scene with the sinking of the yacht Islander and the six persons aboard her. The yacht plunged on the rocks during a heavy gale and sank while coast guardsmen vainly sought to bring aid to the victims. Commodore King, a member of parliament and one time aide-de-camp to King George, was among those who perished.

Heir Presumptive.
In Glamis castle, Scotland, a new heir presumptive to the British throne was born, a princess to the Duchess of York, wife of King George's second son. The duke and duchess now have two daughters, the elder being Princess Elizabeth, aged four. Should the Prince of Wales never marry, these children will be in direct line to the throne, unless the duke and duchess should have a son who would then supersede them.

Meanwhile the shadow of the Indian fight for independence still hung over the British empire. The week saw continuation of efforts to bring about peace. Mahatma Gandhi has written a letter to Viceroy Irwin setting forth his position in the struggle. It is believed that this letter presents the Mahatma's terms for peace, but the letter has not been made public. He was understood however that he had demanded assurance of dominion status.

Domestic British politics also was enlivened by Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer in the late conservative government who delivered a broadside against the laborite government in speech at Minister. Mr. Churchill particularly directed his fire against the government's handling of the naval problem and the Indian situation. His speech was interpreted as the opening gun in a conservative campaign against the government which will swing into full stride when parliament reassembles this October.

Frank B. Kellogg, former American secretary of state, was nominated as justice of the World Court by the American group at Geneva and it was generally expected that he would be elected to fill out the unexpired term of Chief Justice Hughes and then for the full nine-year term in 1931.

Passengers carried on scheduled air transport lines this year will total 200,000, compared with 150,000 in 1929, Young said. One hundred thousand miles of scheduled service are flown every 24 hours now, he added.

Reduction in number of planes produced this year, he said, resulted from the manufacturing phase of the industry's action in contracting itself into "a smaller but highly specialized group, surrounded by the best engineering, production, and marketing personnel that is obtainable today."

The airplane makers, he said, are "projecting plans on new developments, new designs, and new features in an effort to keep in the van of public desire."

The government has spent $8,500,000 in four years in constructing airways, the maintenance of the present airways now calling for an annual expenditure of $5,000,000, he said.

He outlined the proposed three transcontinental air mail routes as the basis for development of a national airways system. These routes, he said, are coordinated and connected with borders so as to facilitate international travel over the entire western hemisphere.

Bids on two of these transcontinental lines will be opened at the post office department at noon tomorrow.

Public Joins Rites At G.A.R. Convention

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Aug. 24.—(AP) The public had its first opportunity to participate in the 64th national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic in Eden-park here today. Trees and a flag pole were dedicated, and the United States marine band gave a concert.

Trees were dedicated by the woman's relief corps to the memory of William C. Johnson, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. 20 years ago, who died two months after his election; Clara Barton, head of the Red Cross and famous Civil War nurse, and Edwin J. Foster, of Massachusetts, the present commander-in-chief.

The flag staff, erected in the park in memory of the Union veterans of the Civil War, was dedicated by the Daughters of Union Veterans.

Special services were held in all Cincinnati churches this morning in honor of the visiting veterans and their friends.

Large delegations continued to arrive in Cincinnati today.

ALAMOGORDO, N. M., Aug. 24.—(AP) Apparently killed by a stray bullet, which struck him in the side, the body of Frank Normand, 23, government pathologist, was found in Lincoln national forest, near here, Saturday afternoon. There were no empty shells in his own pistol, strapped to his side.

Sheriff Albert Burch, who was called to investigate, said the man apparently had been killed by a stray bullet. However, he could not say from whence it had come.

AIR TRAVEL BECOMES NECESSITY—YOUNG

Commerce Department Aviation Issues Statement on Industry's Growth.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(UN) The Hoover-Lindbergh conversations on the status of American aviation today resulted in a commerce department report to President Hoover as to the state of the industry.

The report was made by Clarence M. Young, assistant commerce secretary for air, who said the recent Waite air mail act when fully effective will extend air mail facilities to many localities not now being served, and thereby promote considerably the air passenger business.

Passengers carried on scheduled air transport lines this year will total 200,000, compared with 150,000 in 1929, Young said. One hundred thousand miles of scheduled service are flown every 24 hours now, he added.

Commerce Department Aviation Issues Statement on Industry's Growth.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(UN) The Hoover-Lindbergh conversations on the status of American aviation today resulted in a commerce department report to President Hoover as to the state of the industry.

The report was made by Clarence M. Young, assistant commerce secretary for air, who said the recent Waite air mail act when fully effective will extend air mail facilities to many localities not now being served, and thereby promote considerably the air passenger business.

Passengers carried on scheduled air transport lines this year will total 200,000, compared with 150,000 in 1929, Young said. One hundred thousand miles of scheduled service are flown every 24 hours now, he added.

Reduction in number of planes produced this year, he said, resulted from the manufacturing phase of the industry's action in contracting itself into "a smaller but highly specialized group, surrounded by the best engineering, production, and marketing personnel that is obtainable today."

The airplane makers, he said, are "projecting plans on new developments, new designs, and new features in an effort to keep in the van of public desire."

The government has spent $8,500,000 in four years in constructing airways, the maintenance of the present airways now calling for an annual expenditure of $5,000,000, he said.

He outlined the proposed three transcontinental air mail routes as the basis for development of a national airways system. These routes, he said, are coordinated and connected with borders so as to facilitate international travel over the entire western hemisphere.

Bids on two of these transcontinental lines will be opened at the post office department at noon tomorrow.

Public Joins Rites At G.A.R. Convention

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Aug. 24.—(AP) The public had its first opportunity to participate in the 64th national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic in Eden-park here today. Trees and a flag pole were dedicated, and the United States marine band gave a concert.

Trees were dedicated by the woman's relief corps to the memory of William C. Johnson, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. 20 years ago, who died two months after his election; Clara Barton, head of the Red Cross and famous Civil War nurse, and Edwin J. Foster, of Massachusetts, the present commander-in-chief.

The flag staff, erected in the park in memory of the Union veterans of the Civil War, was dedicated by the Daughters of Union Veterans.

Special services were held in all Cincinnati churches this morning in honor of the visiting veterans and their friends.

Large delegations continued to arrive in Cincinnati today.

Stray Bullet Thought Cause of Man's Death

ALAMOGORDO, N. M., Aug. 24.—(AP) Apparently killed by a stray bullet, which struck him in the side, the body of Frank Normand, 23, government pathologist, was found in Lincoln national forest, near here, Saturday afternoon. There were no empty shells in his own pistol, strapped to his side.

Sheriff Albert Burch, who was called to investigate, said the man apparently had been killed by a stray bullet. However, he could not say from whence it had come.

Large Field Starts Quest of State Net Title at East Lake Today

YALOW STEALS HOME TO BEAT GIANTS, 3 TO 2

TENNIS CROWN STAKE IN MEET AT EAST LAKE

Many Stars Set To Contest Bryan Grant's Title Today.

By Roy White.

Over 75 of the best tennis players of the south are to contest a series of tennis matches today at East Lake Country Club. The fight for the title, to be defended by Bryan Grant, takes a vacation following his recent tourney play on the grass courts of the east, is slated to be a royal, no one man has yet risen above the field to assume the position of undisputed favorite, though a number have been given equal chances to come through. First matches will be played at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the men's singles. The boys and juniors are scheduled to start swishing rackets at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, while the Georgia state crown will drive at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Grant, present titleholder and winner of the 1929 national play court crown, will not participate in the Georgia tournament, leaving the field wide open for competition. He will be on the sidelines as he was in the city tournament, although he may play an exhibition match before the week is over.

Wilmer Hines, the South Carolina star, also will be among the missing for the first time in many years. Jack Mooney, runner-up last year, has not decided as to whether or not he will play.

Mooney is chairman of the tournament committee and will be assisted by F. C. Owens, a former southern champion, and Jack Simpson.

Mooney and Grant arrived in the city late Sunday night from the east, where they have participated in grass court tournaments.

Malcolm Courts, who has been in charge of the entries, in the absence of Mooney, stated Sunday night that the pairings will be drawn today. All those entered in the men's singles are requested to be at East Lake courts at 2 o'clock this afternoon when first round matches are scheduled to start.

The tournament is being sponsored by the Atlanta Athletic Club and is sanctioned by the South-eastern Association. The headquarters for visiting players will be at the club.

The 1930 tournament looms as one of the most colorful of recent years. The absence of Grant, who has dominated recent play, leaves the path to the title open and should put spirit and fight into the contest.

Youth is conceded a good chance to rule the play. George Boynton, Billy Reese, Al and Jimmy Halverson and Letty Bryan, of Chattanooga, Tenn., have been heard from in recent tournaments. They have played consistent tennis all summer and will give plenty of trouble before yielding to an opponent in the state tournament.

Sandlotters Play Sunday Baseball

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—(AP)—For the first time in years scores of amateur teams played Sunday baseball today in various parts of the city without fear of arrest on charges of disturbance.

Judge Edwin O. Lewis ruled on an appeal case that taking up a collection to defray expenses of the teams did not constitute a disorderly act, and that Sunday ball might be played except in localities so thickly populated that the game constituted a disturbance.

In the recent test case attorneys for the ball clubs dug up an old law that antedates the blue law by more than 50 years which provides police may not make arrests on the Sabbath for minor offenses.

'Varsity' Poloists Are Tied by Reds

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Tommy Hitchcock's Varsity Whites ran into stubborn opposition from the Reds, or Junior Varsity, in today's trial match for the international series and were held to a 13-13 tie in a spectacular match.

The deadlock began the first time since the polo trials began that Hitchcock's varsity failed to win. Hitchcock, Guest and Smith fed the ball to Pedley and the Californian tallied eight goals for the best individual performance of the day. The Reds were given a handicap of seven goals.

Hitchcock narrowly escaped serious injury in the fourth period when he was thrown from his pony.

Col. Huston Visits Spiller in Atlanta

Colonel T. L. Huston, formerly one of the owners of the New York Yankees and now one of the greatest landowners in south Georgia, was a visitor in Atlanta Sunday. Colonel Huston is not now connected with baseball but evidences a great interest in the game. He is particularly distressed that Wilbert Robinson's team in the National League, the Brooklyn Robins, have slumped. With Colonel Huston were Joe Heineckman and Charley Smith. The former is president of Dover Hall, the famous hunting lodge in south Georgia near Brunswick. They were guests of R. J. Spiller, of the Atlanta baseball club Sunday.

Larrupin' Lou

Larrupin' Lou Gehrig, second in command of the fence-busting battalion of the New York Yankees, asserted his claim to fame Sunday afternoon by smashing out hits in six out of eight trips to the plate to take the undisputed batting lead of the American league and step into second place in the inter-league race.

GEHRIG CLIMBS AS MATES FAIL

Pitchers Best Big Six Batters in Sunday Warfare.

By the Associated Press.

Lou Gehrig alone was able to break the spell the pitchers held over the Big Six batters yesterday, while Babe Herman apparently got a break as rain kept him idle. Gehrig hit safely six times in eight trips to the plate, lifted his average 6 points above its former level of .390, and captured the American league batting lead and second place in the Big Six.

Bill Terry retained a lead of 12 points over Gehrig, although he lost 1 by getting only one hit in four times at bat.

Al Simmons held his mark at .391 with two hits in four attempts, although he was dropped into third place. Chuck Klein dropped a point, however the idle Herman doubled to .287.

The field included all of the best players, most experienced double teams in the United States and three from Great Britain. Although eight teams, that is one in every four of the 32 entered, have been seeded, the tournament is quite as likely to prove a chain of upsets.

Last year's doubles champions, George Me. Lott, of Chicago, and John H. Doeg, of Santa Monica, Cal., have been seeded, but they will have to improve mightily over their form in the past to get to the final round. They are likely to meet in that round either Keith Gledhill, of Santa Barbara, Cal., and Ellsworth Vines, of Pasadena, Cal., or the pair of Tidd and Gerald Bartosh, of Los Angeles, seeded.

Both of these young western teams have cut a wide swath on eastern courts this summer and Tidd and Bartosh defeated Lott and Doeg at Newport.

Commodore Feds Beat Grant Park

Seventh and eighth inning rallies enabled the Commodore Feds to beat Grant Park, 5 to 3, Sunday afternoon, at the prison. The score was tied until the seventh when bunched Grant Park errors and good pitching hitting in the eighth inning accounted for two Fed runs.

Black with two hits, led the Fed attack, while R. Watta, H. Watts and Speigler shared honors for the losers. Ball gave the Feds only five hits which coupled with six errors accounted for eight runs.

Rieur Captures Rich Deauville Turf Event

DEAUVILLE, France, Aug. 24.—(AP)—G. Wildenstein's Rieur, a 3-year-old, by Joyeux Drille out of Reine De Naples, won the Grand Prix Deauville, worth 500,000 francs, today.

Rieur, a 45-to-1 shot, easily beat the great French 5-year-old, Motrice, and one of the best 4-year-olds, Le Chatelet, which ran second and third, respectively. Edouard De Rothschild's Coche, the favorite, was an also ran. A field of 20 started.

STRIB BELIEVES HE CAN DEFEAT CHAMPION MAX

Foul Victory Not Descriptive, Says W. L. Over Radio.

W. L. (Young) Stribling, Georgia's contender to the heavyweight fighting ranks and now the most prominent contender for the title, believes he can defeat Max Schmeling, present champion, and does not believe that a victory on a foul is an indication of some man's superiority over another.

Stribling spent Sunday afternoon in Atlanta after flying here from Macon with several friends from that city. He was interviewed Sunday evening over Radio Station WSB.

Strib and his party are to remain in Atlanta until this afternoon, when he will return to Macon. He is slated to return to Atlanta Wednesday afternoon on his way to the national air races at Chicago.

"I hope to land a match with Max Schmeling," he said. "I leave all my business to 'Pa.' I have kept my business for about nine years and I have landed me where I am now. So I just do the fighting and let him do the business part of it. I don't think he can be beaten at that."

"I saw Schmeling fight Sharkey and I think I can beat him. Sharkey was ahead on points when the fight ended on the foul, but Schmeling was stronger in the fourth round, when he returned to Atlanta Wednesday afternoon on his way to the national air races at Chicago."

"It is impossible to say who would have won. Sharkey was ahead. I don't think, however, that winning on a foul reflects the superiority of one fighter over another."

Stribling said that he was perfectly willing to meet Primo Carnera again, but preferred meeting Schmeling.

"Carnera is better than people think," he said. "I fought him twice, winning once on a foul and losing once the same way. He is a big fellow with a great reach and can punch. I don't think he is as smart as some I've fought, but any man who weighs 260 pounds is dangerous."

In discussing his recent victories, which include knockouts of Otto Von Porat and Phil Scott, Stribling said he and "Pa" had decided to cast a little caution to the wind and start slugging some.

"I haven't given up footwork and boxing," said Stribling. "I have sacrificed some of it. One has to when going out to hit because one can't get set to hit. But I have retained most of it."

"Dempsey was clever as a hitter. He was always bobbing about and was hard to hit. He could hit from any angle."

"I think I'll keep on hitting as long as I proves as successful as it has recently. It's more fun to hit them than drop than it is to box it out."

The novice which was administered to Stribling's injured left hand during the fight with Phil Scott, helped him win that fight. It did not aid him in the Scott contest.

"My hand was too sore to use at Chicago when I met Von Porat," he said. "The novitaince deadened it. At London the doctor didn't know how to inject it in my hand and it did not after the first round. Scott started a right hand punching attack and I had to use my left. It hurt every time I punched but the hand was a lot better than at Chicago and I could use it. I think it will be well in about six weeks or two months."

MAWINN

Perhaps the widely press agented drought, or drouth (however you choose to spell it), had something to do with the general impression of "fall of the year" one gained motoring southward through Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and Georgia.

Fields were brown with weeds gone to seed. Trees on distant hills were beginning to show red and yellow. Sparrows had begun their annual autumn conclave; they were maneuvering about in escadrilles, like clouds of brown leaves. That's always a sign, they say, that fall has come. That and the evening chill in the air.

And along the roads boys stand with battered handbags jerking a hopeful thumb for a lift. They are hitch-hiking to school—or to far lands to seek their fortunes.

All of which means football to at least half of those enumerated in the last census.

HOW FOOTBALL HELPS.

Two young men from Indiana hitched a ride to Georgia last week-end to go to school. They were born almost within the shadow of the golden dome of Notre Dame.

One is Chet Bollinger, who was a freshman at Indiana University last year. The other is Lowell Peterson, who worked a year after graduating from high school.

They had read about Georgia beating Yale and had seen Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets play at Notre Dame. They wanted to go away from home to college, to see something of another section and selected the state of Georgia because they had heard of or seen football teams that came from here.

Thus does football act as a leavening agent, stirring up the mass of Americans and bringing distant sections into contact. Such contacts usually are pleasurable and elevating on both sides.

ZUPPKE TELLS ALL.

At hand is an autographed copy of Bob Zuppk's new book, "Coaching Football." It is unique in many respects; anything produced by the little football coach at Illinois would be that way.

One chapter describes in detail the daily program of the Illinois squad from the beginning to the end of a season. So far as is known this has never been done by any coach. Another gives diagrams of all Zuppk's pet plays; no use to scout Illinois this year; buy a book and save railroad fare.

Through it is Zuppk's own maxims of the game. He is a phrase maker as well as a builder of football teams:

"The coach is responsible to an irresponsible public... Football may be a brutal game but brutes cannot play it... Praise sparingly. Don't spank then kiss... If you neglect details you will have a hard time convincing the public you are a hard luck coach... A good defense takes the heart out of many a good offense" and so on.

It is quite a book for any coach to have and it would help any alumnus to read it. In outlining what a good coach must do, it sets him before his constituency in a clearer light.

CURED OF VACATIONS.

"Hello, where were you yesterday? I tried to get you over the telephone all day... did you see the Fox last week? I read what you wrote every day in The Constitution... why didn't you come to the party at Jim's? How did your car get so dusty, been away somewhere?"

Such salutations as those, coupled with a slight increase in circulation over the past week, convince me that I might as well have stayed out of the paper six weeks instead of one.

Or on the other hand, perhaps it is well I rushed back when I did. Such absences are dangerous. It all goes to show, etc., etc., etc.

MORE ABOUT FAME.

BETTY NUTHALL COURT QUEEN

English Lass Sweeps Mrs. Harper Aside at Forest Hills.

By Alan Gould.

Associated Press Sports Editor.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Amid an enthusiastic demonstration as any home-bred triumph, the English girl, solely through the superior power in her strokes, swept to straight set triumph by scores of 6-1, 6-4, in the final round of the national women's tennis championships. The match lasted exactly 38 minutes.

Miss Nuthall, who wasn't playing well enough last spring to be picked for the British Wimbledon team, scored a clean sweep of American honors by winning the national doubles championship in partnership with the 17-year-old Boston girl, Sarah Paley. In a match delayed by a downpour and then played partly in the rain, Miss Nuthall and Big Hutcherson emerged victorious in three hard-fought sets, at 3-6, 6-3, 7-5.

Miss Nuthall's singles victory marks the first time in 43 years that the crown of American women's tennis goes overseas, although the first triumph of a foreign contender was by the former Molla Bursatidze, now Mrs. Mallory. Nevertheless, the popularity of the engaging British invader has been such that she was cheered to a standing ovation by 3,500 spectators as the big championship trophy, filled with American beauty, was presented to her.

Great Rally. Except for a courageous rally in the second set, Mrs. Harper was outclassed, her defense beaten down by the sheer force of Betty's low, raking strokes.

An exhibition mixed doubles match, played after the two main bouts, Clifford Sutter of New Orleans, the intercollegiate champion, and the English girl, won the match by a 4-2 on games and 30-love on points in the seventh game.

GOOD GENERALSHIP. The American's uphilt fight was marked by superb generalship and control. Betty, regaining control of her service, raced through four straight games to clinch the set and title. Miss Nuthall, the English girl, won her robust shoulder muscles behind her service and captured four straight points to repulse Mrs. Harper's last threat.

SEE-SAW MATCH. The doubles was a see-saw affair in which the tide of fortune shifted often and rapidly.

Miss Nuthall's victory was secured on her third attempt. She reached the finals in 1927, losing to Miss Willis and last year was put out in an early round by Mrs. Molla Mallory. This was the English girl's first national championship. She has never so much as reached the final round of the British tournament at Wimbledon, but she waded through the Moodyless ranks here with the loss of only one set, that to Marjorie Morrill in the semifinals.

WILBUR GOOD'S RECORD. While Joe Hutcherson, the jubilant kid slagger over at Memphis, is trying desperately to set a modern batting record for the Southern league, a record set by an Atlantan stands staunchly against the rising tide of base hits.

Uncle Wilbur Good, who led the Southern league in 1925 with an average of .343, made more base hits that year than any other Southern league hitter in modern years has been able to amass.

Uncle Wilbur, who ended his career as a Cracker when he managed the club through the 1929 season, hammered out 236 base hits that year for 343 total bases. No one has come close to that.

Hutcherson has a chance to beat Elliott Bigelow's mark of .395 set in 1928. His present record, with that of past leaders, follows:

G.	A.B.	R.	H.	B.	A.B.	H.R.	T.B.	Pct.
1930—Hutcherson, M'phis.	407	325	106	128	25	11	18,227	.394
1929—Jeans, Memphis	448	510	105	176	25	11	7,244	.345
1928—Bigelow, B'ham.	434	489	115	193	28	13	8,271	.395
1927—W. Davis, N. O.	452	591	107	222	46	11	41,323	.376
1926—T. Taylor, Memphis	455	533	129	212	46	22	12,340	.383
1925—Good, Atlanta	452	622	130	236	33	22	10,343	.379
1924—J. (Red) Smith, Atl.	431	475	90	183	31	8	9,257	.385
1923—Huhn, Mobile	453	531	105	183	46	6	6,259	.345
1922—Schleiber, L. R.	450	548	77	194	34	10	5,263	.345
1921—Boone, N. O.	456	574	118	223	46	27	5,338	.389
1920—Harper, L. R.	451	567	98	196	44	16	8,296	.346

Uncle Wilbur was quite a hitter in his day. He had a beautiful swing up there at the plate and his eye was near-perfect. He rarely struck out. The odds out in the bleachers were always heavily on Uncle Wilbur to hit safely.

That record of base hits and total bases, however, will stand for quite a while. There will be sluggers every year but few of them can stand up there and hit like your Uncle Wilbur.

Joe Hutcherson, who is one of the best hitters in the Southern league today, is set for a close chase.

CUBS INCREASE GRASP ON LEAD TO FIVE GAMES

Dannie Races Across Plate in Ninth To End Battle.

By William Weeks.

Associated Press Sports Writer.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(AP)—A cream-colored streak, a big cloud of dust, and young Dannie Taylor had stolen home in the ninth inning today and with it he snatched another ball game for the Cubs from the Giants.

The play, one of baseball's most sensational and one rarely seen, came in the ninth inning of the final game of the series today, and gave the Cubs a breath-taking 3-to-2 triumph, to boost them five full games ahead of the pack in the National league championship struggle. It also was Chicago's third victory in the four-game series with the Manhattan marauders.

The Giants tied the score at 2-all in their half of the ninth, and when Wilson popped out to open the Cub half it appeared that another capacity crowd of 45,000 spectators would have to stick around to witness the final out of the series.

Hutcherson Hits Double With Bases Full To Win Game.

By William Weeks.

Associated Press Sports Writer.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Like a jumping jack out of a box, the Crackers, who had been limping along but still carrying the banner, sprung out of a protracted slump this afternoon, bumping the Crackers, 6 to 5.

Big Joe Hutcherson stuck out a crippled hand to spring the spring that loosed the Crackers. With two outs in the ninth inning and three runners on base, he hit a double, which sent the bases rolling.

SHERLOCK HOLMES—"Silver Blaze"

Sherlock Holmes went on: "The maid had begun to tell the stable-boy what had happened, when the stranger returned and spoke to Hunter. She noticed, Watson, a little paper packet in his hand. 'You have two horses in the Wexley Cup,' he said to the lad. 'Is it true? The yard is better than Silver Blaze?'"

"So you're one of those cursed fouts, the boy exclaimed, 'I'll show you how we serve 'em here.' He rushed across the stable to unloose the dog. The girl fled toward the house, but as she ran she looked back toward the stable and saw the stranger leaning through the window."

"A minute later, when Hunter rushed out with the dog, the man was gone. He ran all around the buildings, but found no trace of him." "Did he lock the door?" I asked. Holmes replied that he did, and added the window was too small to admit a man.

"Hunter waited," Holmes went on, "until his fellow-grooms had returned, when he sent one of them with a message to the trainer, telling him what had occurred. Straker was excited at hearing the account, though he does not seem to have realized its true significance."

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

WHAT REDDY'S MISTAKE WAS.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

To act, not knowing what to do, Chagrin will often bring to you.

—Reddy Fox.

Black Pussy the Cat is very black indeed. There isn't a white hair in her coat. She lives at Farmer Brown's. She is well cared for. She has all she can eat and more. She never has to go hungry at all. Nevertheless, Black Pussy goes hunting every day. You see, the love of hunting is in her, as it is in most cats. She doesn't hunt because she is hungry. Oh, no! This isn't it at all. She hunts because she loves to hunt. She likes the excitement. Sometimes Black Pussy hunted in the Old Orchard; sometimes she went down to the Long Lane to the Green Meadows; once in a while she hunted along the edge of the Green Forest. But she didn't like the Green Forest so well. This morning Black Pussy decided to try the old stone wall again. She was curious. Some one all in black was living there and she wanted to know about him. Once she had almost caught him. It was the first and only time she had seen him and he looked very much like a Chipmunk. Black Pussy didn't believe he could be a Chipmunk, because she had never heard of a black Chipmunk. It didn't make any difference; she wanted him anyway. So that is how it happened that on this particular morning Black Pussy went to the stone wall to hunt.

Before going to the old stone wall, Black Pussy went down through the Old Orchard and finally came to the stone wall at the end nearest the Green Forest. She saw no signs of Striped Chipmunk, or of Impy the black Chipmunk; but that didn't discourage her at all. You know, Black Pussy is another one of those patient people. She long ago learned that often patient waiting and waiting is rewarded. So she isn't disappointed if she doesn't see right away that she has started out to hunt. She moved along on the side of the old wall looking into and smell of all the holes between the stones. Once or twice

Once or twice she got a faint scent of Chipmunk.

she got a faint scent of Chipmunk. It was just enough to excite her a little, but she knew that it was old. By and by Black Pussy sat down at a point where a big stone had fallen out of the old wall. Scraper the Kingbird was making a fuss over in the Old Orchard and Black Pussy sat with her back to the wall, looking into the Old Orchard to see what the fuss was about. Now, you know that, no matter how still Black Pussy herself may be, the tip of her tail is apt to keep moving, especially if she is interested or excited. It was so now. Her tail lay in such a way that when she straightened the end of it out it could be seen between the stones of the old wall from the other side. She straightened it out and curled it back. Then she straightened it out again, without really knowing what she was doing.

Something had happened right then and there. Black Pussy gave a yell of fright. Something had seized the end of her tail. It let go instantly and Black Pussy whirled about with every hair standing on end, as she hissed and snarled. Through the little gap in the wall made by the fallen stone she saw into the startled face of Reddy Fox. It was a question which one was the most surprised. You see, Reddy had made a mistake. He had seen the end of Black Pussy's tail without really seeing her and had seized it thinking it was Impy the black Chipmunk. So it was a question which was the more surprised and which was the more angry, Black Pussy or Reddy Fox. (Copyright, 1930, for The Constitution.)

Berlin Communists Attack Fascists

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Communists demonstrating in connection with the political campaign for the forthcoming Reichstag elections today began an almost warlike offensive in various parts of Berlin, indiscriminately attacking fascists, police and passers-by. One hundred were arrested.

They used bottles, chairs and table legs from beer gardens as weapons. At one place they laid down a barrage of glasses, cups and saucers.

In the east end they closed one street and leveled contributions for the communist party upon all pedestrians and vehicles. In the north end a communist procession was led by two women dressed as priests, both of whom were arrested.

The police were busy all day coping with the communists and their fascist enemies. Forty-one fascists also were arrested. Two policemen were seriously injured.

INSTALLMENT XV.

"That's sure slang to me," confessed Himes' listener. "What's a Chinaman?"

"I'm talking pure English. He's a Chinaman! And he's lousy with coin."

"Who? Which papa? The boy?"

"Both of 'em."

"Snap out of it, Himes. You've been sleeping on your hip in some laundry."

"Yeah? Well, I'm telling you. Here's a proposition, as wide open as a gate. It's Lee Ying."

"Nobody else. He's the richest Oriental in the country and his boy is wild about white girls."

"They're all wild about white girls," Mrs. Stevens declared with a curl of her lip. "But what ails you, Himes? Do you think Mona and I are out to lay China boys? When we get that low we'll work the Oriental dance halls. And we won't get you in on it, either. Now I know you've been cooking on a peanut lamp."

"Listen, sister, you're got a peanut mind. You always were a dumb ox."

"I don't see—"

"Of course, you don't see."

"—and I can't take a chance with Mona. Why? I'm the only mother she's got and she's as dear to me as—"

"Don't get throaty, Esther, or you'll have me howling, too. Mona will be safer than wheat. If you'll get off the air for a minute and stand by for station announcements I'll tell you what it's all about."

The motherly Mrs. Stevens agreed to this. "All right. I never lost anything by listening. Spread your hand."

For fully an hour the two talked with their heads together and it was plain that the woman was deeply interested.

A lady was calling upon Mr. Lee, so Mrs. Stevens announced.

No woman either visited Sam's apartment or telephoned him now, days so he rose, went into the hall and took the instrument. An immature, uncultivated voice answered him, it stammered a breathless explanation of her insistence. She was a friend of Alice Hart's, she was downstairs and wished to see Sam on a matter of importance. Would he speak to her if she came up?

"Why, of course," Sam told her.

A young girl, a very pretty young girl, stood upon the threshold. She smiled at Sam, edged her way inside and set down a suitcase.

Sam bowed politely, he led the way to the living room and stood aside, waiting his visitor to enter and be seated.

"Do you say you are a friend of Miss Hart's?"

The stranger nodded, then shook her head. "Well, not a friend exactly. But she gave me your name—I got it from her. I used to know her. She was awful nice to me. She's an awful nice, young lady."

"Charming."

"Well, I'll tell you how it is," the visitor explained. "There's just mother and I and she's kind of an invalid, so I have to work. I'm selling lace things. They give 'em to me to sell, you know, and I get folks to buy them."

"But, Miss—"

"Stevens, Mona Stevens."

"I have no use for lace things."

"You just wait and see. You don't have to buy anything, but please don't turn me down till you look. They're such nice things it's fun to show them, honest. I sold some to Miss Hart but—you have to tell folks and everything to get to see people. I guess you'd fib if you had a sick mother."

One thing sure, his visitor certainly did know Alice Hart, for she spoke of her, again, she referred to Sam's car and to the fact that Alice was in Paris by reason of his assistance. Sam selected the two finest breakfast sets the girl had and offered to write a check for them.

But she refused to take payment at the moment. She did not have the complete sets with her and how did he know that she wouldn't disappear with the money? She made it a practice, she declared, to accept settlement only upon a delivery of the entire orders.

Miss Stevens appeared willing to talk all the morning and Sam had a time getting rid of her.

On the second evening thereafter his doorbell rang and to his annoyance he found that the forward little person was back again with his two breakfast sets.

Presuming upon their acquaintance she had brought with her a costly evening wrap which she insisted upon showing. He didn't have to buy it, of course, but she proposed to leave it with him overnight.

When at last she had gone Sam directed Mona to replace the wrap in its box and to hand it back to the girl when she returned for it.

But the package remained in his possession for several days. Then late one rainy afternoon Mona rang up. She explained that she had been ill and expressed the hope that Sam liked the lace evening wrap because already she had kept it longer than she had promised to keep it; she was allowed to retain articles of real value only for a limited time. Sam told her that he could not buy the garment.

There was a pause, then the girl asked him, feebly, to return it. She was too ill to venture out in such weather or to argue the matter; she and her mother lived nearby, it would be a great accommodation.

He promised to bring it within the hour.

He had no difficulty in finding the address, the Stevens women were living in a somewhat better house than he had expected and when he rang their apartment bell Mona herself opened the door for him.

She was in a pretty disorder but appeared unconscious of it, she welcomed him gratefully and insisted that he remove his overcoat and sit down near the gas grate. She sat down beside him on the couch and immediately plunged into an explanation of her difficulty.

She began by admitting that she had deceived him and her mother, too, about that wrap. She had not taken it on commission but she had bought it. She would have no difficulty in selling it, as soon as she could get out and around, but tomorrow the rent on the apartment was due and there was no money in the house. If Sam would consent to hold the wrap as security and advance the amount of the rent—just for a few days—she'd be able to dispose of the wrap in no time. Well, the rent was eighty dollars.

Inwardly Sam smiled. He took eight ten-dollar bills from his wallet, folded them and laid them on a sewing basket at his elbow, then moved to go. To his surprise, Mona bowed her face in his hands and began to sob convulsively. He tried to quiet her.

"Mona!" came a stern and disapproving exclamation. Sam had not heard the door open but open it had and in it stood a woman. She looked to be anything except an invalid.

"What are you crying about? And who is this—young man?" the mother demanded.

Sam rose, he felt his cheeks tingle; he stood silently while Mona tried to make him know.

"Oh, that's who you are!" Mrs. Stevens cried. "What are you doing here? Why did you sneak in while I was away? Mona told me—"

The speaker's eyes fell upon the bank notes and they dilated, she started, flung out an accusing hand. With a histrionic change of tone she cried hoarsely: "My God! What's the meaning of this?"

"Your daughter will explain," Sam told her stiffly. He took his coat and hat, but the mother planted herself before him crying:

"Just a minute! I understand now why she's been acting so queer. She's been like this ever since you had her up in your apartment. She told me about meeting you, being in your place and—I suspected something. Now, the minute she got back is turned you slip in here and—give her money!"

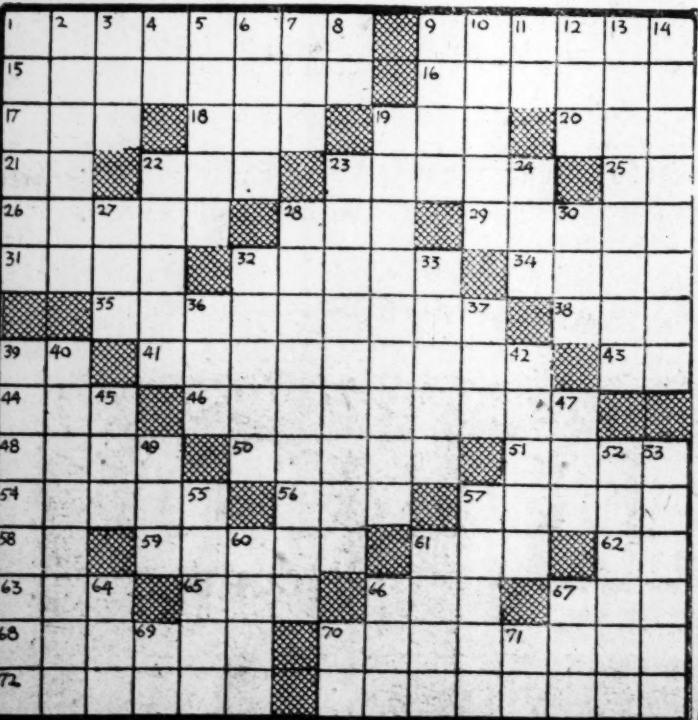

Mrs. Stevens seized the handful of bills and brandished them; a look of loathing and of scorn distorted her features. "If you think money can square—"

New Business Year Begins In Earnest on Labor Day

BY R. L. BARNUM.
NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—A week from today comes Labor Day, the real beginning of the new business year based on the harvest and subsequent exchange of farm products for raw and finished goods. Spring trade, getting ready for the year's harvest, was disappointing. Moreover, only a few weeks ago the outlook was for a serious and protracted depression. Today we know that crop damage from the prolonged drought and hot weather was greatly exaggerated. Allowing for crop loss and existing low prices for farm products, the value of this year's crops in dollars will run into billions, not far from $10,000,000,000.

In the last day or two, recognized leaders in the financial and industrial world have given their views on the situation and outlook. Roger W. Babson, touring the west, said there should be steady improvement in that section of the country with the farm over a period of the next 20 years, experiencing "an era of constantly increasing prosperity." The farmer, he says, was the first to go down and he will be the first to recover from the business depression and the industrial excesses starting in 1928 and running for four years, marking the end of a period of industrial expansion, mergers, and consolidation in the history of this country up to that time. While optimistic regarding the outlook for the farmer, Babson has a pessimistic view of the general situation: "I do not care to predict that there will be a general advance in 1931."

Mellon Speaks Out.
For the first time in many months Secretary Mellon has expressed his views on the outlook. What Secretary Mellon had to say from time to time during the unprecedented bull stock market and general trade activity which ended last October, is interestingly told in Harper's, for August in a story called "Presidential Prosperity." What Mr. Mellon, Mr. Coolidge and others in the Coolidge administration, had to say for publication after the so-called "Coolidge boom" started in 1924, is given in "Presidential Prosperity." It is pointed out, in this article, that in the last year Mr. Mellon expressed the belief that some stocks were selling too high and that the time had arrived to sell them. From that time until now Mr. Mellon has had nothing to say for publication.

When the statement just made Mr. Mellon points out that in his opinion the current business depression is world-wide, resulting from overproduction, with markets flooded, and that sales dropping and manufacturers overstocked, production had to drop, he says, with the result unemployment, reduced buying power, general trade depression, and a consequent "output," Mr. Mellon adds, "without a question will correct the present condition within a short time."

Harvey S. Firestone, the tire manufacturer, is of the belief that the present depression in business will soon be succeeded by greater prosperity than that which has prevailed in recent years. This opinion is based on the readjustments that have been made and are being made to meet changed conditions.

When the stock market panic broke last October, financial, industrial and political leaders, one after the other, kept on saying that the trouble was stock market speculation and that the stock market panic would soon be forgotten and that general business would then go ahead; that there was no overproduction and that conditions in general trade were fundamentally sound. Now we know otherwise. Mr. Mellon is not the only recognized leader who has admitted that our trouble industrially has been overproduction; dislocation of balance between production and consumption.

But curtailment of production in most basic lines started a year ago last month. While the stock market gave no signal until the panic started in October, looking backward after October it was plain that curtailment of production was under way in July of 1929. That is nearly 13 months ago, with the pace of curtailment in recent months steadily increasing.

90-Billion Yearly Income.
According to the latest available figures, the annual income of this country is $90,000,000,000. Trustworthy figures place the difference between the income of this country in the worst years of depression and prosperous times at from 15 to 20 per cent, with the difference between the best years and moderately good years at 12 to 15 per cent. The National City bank has just compiled the combined net profits of 305 corporations for the first half of 1930 at $653,000,000, or 0.7 per cent of the corresponding period of 1929, but only 3 per cent under the first half of 1928.

Compared with the first half of 1929, these figures seem to bear out the statement by Babson that we are now experiencing the worst stage of depression in 25 years. No sane person, however, wants to see conditions existing the first half of 1929. At that time both in the stock market and in general trade, we had more than one foot in a fool's paradise.

TWO WOMEN TREATED AFTER TAKING POISON

Neither in Serious Condition, Hospital Reports; Several Autoists Hurt in Crashes.

Two alleged attempts at suicide and a series of minor automobile accidents, in which no one was seriously injured, were brought to the attention of Grady hospital attendants and police Sunday morning.

Mrs. C. C. Bramblett, 24, of 378 Ponce de Leon avenue, was taken to

JAMES K. JORDAN

Candidate for Judge of Fulton Superior Court (to succeed Judge Humphries). The ring is desperately striving to re-elect the incumbent but the load on the payroll for himself and kin makes him too great a luxury for the taxpayers to retain.

This ring has already plunged Fulton county in debt exceeding $2,600,000 and its domination must end.—(adv.)

Grady hospital suffering from the effects of what was thought to be a poisoning. Mrs. Bramblett refused to discuss the case with Grady attendants, but her husband stated that she had taken the poison in a fit of anger. She probably will recover, hospital attendants said. A similar case was that of Mrs. Nora Dillard, 225 Sutton street, who was taken to the hospital about 1:45 o'clock Sunday morning. Her condition was said to be favorable Sunday night.

Those injured in automobile accidents were Mrs. W. L. Duren, of 113 Fifth street, N. E., who was slightly cut about the face when the car driven by her husband, the Rev. W. L. Duren, collided with a taxicab on Juniper street about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Mrs. S. R. Cause, of 420 Peachtree street, was slightly injured late Saturday afternoon at Whitehall and Mitchell streets when she was struck by a car said to have been driven by David Grey, negro, of a Jonesboro road address, and Floyd Moody, of 44 Eleventh street, N. W., who suffered a badly bruised face and cuts about the head when his car struck a telegraph pole on Ponce de Leon avenue at Moreland. Moody was dismissed from Grady hospital after treatment.

Bids Open Today On New Air Mail Route to Pacific

A quicker air mail connection between the east, the south and southwest with the southwest was seen here Sunday in plans of the post office department to open bids in Washington today for a new air mail line.

The department is expected to award a contract for the route from Atlanta to Birmingham, Meridian and Dallas, and thence to Los Angeles, El Paso and across New Mexico, Arizona and California to Los Angeles.

Bids also are to be opened today on a line from New York to Philadelphia, St. Louis, Kansas City and Los Angeles. Beginning of service on the new south-southwestern line will afford improvements on beacons and landing fields between Atlanta and Dallas.

The new line will give Atlanta a direct connection with southwestern cities, and with the Pacific coast. Already the hub of a system of air mail lines extending in every direction from Atlanta, the new service will afford quicker air mail facilities for all points on air mail lines at present reaching Atlanta.

Two of Kreiser's loveliest Viennese airs, "Liebesfreud" and "Liebeslied," will be included in the varied list of classics offered on Stromberg-Carlson's network program of orchestral music. Under the direction of Frederick Reinisch, the program will be spread at 8 o'clock from coast-to-coast over WHAM, Rochester, WSB and the WHAM network of the National Broadcasting Company.

John Gurney, bass-baritone, who was a member of the Harvard Glee Club a few years ago, has been entrusted with the debut of "A Song of the Clouds" by William C. Howard, which is still in manuscript form. Gurney will be assisted by the Roxie male chorus. Wally Clarke and Claude Reese will introduce "Where Can You Find the Hills of Home?" The quartet, which has almost everybody knows by this time consists of James Melton, Lewis James, Elliott Shaw and Wilfred Glenn, will be heard in several numbers including Mr. Black's now famous arrangement of Rachmaninoff's Prelude in C Sharp Minor. This number originally written for piano is one of the most difficult ever attempted by a quartet.

In a lighter vein are two popular melodies "Raquel" and "Strike Up the Band," George Gershwin's stirring tune from the musical comedy success of that name. Each week Mr. Black will be heard in a piano solo which will be a concert number or one of his improvisations. Tonight he will take Cole Porter's "What Is This?"

"Mrs. Jones had on a wonderful new dress..."

The Mrs. Jones we're talking about is the sort of woman who, in spite of only moderate means, is always well dressed... whose home is furnished with exquisite, though not extravagant, taste... whose table is frequently graced with some appetizing new food product... whose housekeeping equipment, kitchen requisites, toilet accessories, all seem to have been chosen with rare good judgment.

Mrs. Jones is an observant woman. A well-informed woman. A keen judge of values. A careful buyer... She reads the advertisements in her favorite newspaper.

Whatever is new or improved in the realm of merchandise, Mrs. Jones most likely knows all about it... She reads The Constitution advertisements.

Whatever store is putting on an unusual sale, Mrs. Jones has probably heard about it... She reads The Constitution advertisements.

Are you Mrs. Jones? Or a woman like her?

To get the newest, the best and the most for your money... read The Constitution advertisements
